

Part ii. Examine the participle.

Examine the functions.

Since a participle is an action, it specifies grammatical tense and agency. Unlike a personal action, a participle is non-personal. Like an impersonal action, a participle can function in a sentence as an descriptor, an action, or a thing. Unlike an impersonal, a participle specifies grammatical role, gender, and number. So, a participle indicates grammatical categories of both an action and a thing.

Examine modifier functions.

A time specifies when another action occurs, for example, προσμεῖναι ἐν ἐφέσω, πορευόμενος εἰς μακεδονίαν ‘stay in Ephesus while I travel to Macedonia’ 1 Timothy 1:3.

A manner defines how another action occurs, for example, ἡ σπαταλῶσα ζῶσα ‘she lives extravagantly’ 1 Timothy 5:6.

A concession implies that another action is true in spite of the participle action, for example, διότι γνόντες τὸν θεὸν οὐχ ὡς θεὸν ἐδόξασαν ‘even though they knew God, they did not honor him as God’ Romans 1:21.

A result specifies the outcome of another action, for example, ἡ εὐσέβεια πρὸς πάντα ὠφέλιμός ἐστιν ἐπαγγελίαν ἔχουσα ζωῆς ‘godliness is beneficial for everything—it grants the promise of life’ 1 Timothy 4:8.

Examine action functions.

A possession absolute stands alone, for example, διεφθαρμένων ἀνθρώπων τὸν νοῦν ‘they corrupt the human mind’ 1 Timothy 6:5.

A condition connects another required action with its possible result, for example, εἴτα διακονήσωσαν ἀνέγκλητοι ὄντες ‘then they can serve once they prove they are blameless’ 1 Timothy 3:10.

A purpose is the motivating factor for another action, for example, τοῦτο δὲ ἔλεγεν σημαίνων ποίῳ θανάτῳ ἤμελλεν ἀποθνήσκειν ‘he said this to predict how his death would honor God’ John 12:33.

Indirect discourse reports a thought or statement following another action of perception or communication, for example, χάριν ἔχω τῷ ἐνδυναμώσαντί με τῷ κυρίῳ ἡμῶν ‘I am thankful that the messiah strengthened me’ 1 Timothy 1:12.

A completion finishes the thought of another action, for example, παιδεύουσα ἡμᾶς ἵνα ἀρνησάμενοι τὴν ἀσέβειαν ‘it instructs us so that we can deny wickedness’ Titus 2:12.

A reason gives a cause for another action, for example, ταῦτά σοι γράφω, ἐλπίζων ἐλθεῖν πρὸς σέ ‘I am writing because I hope to visit you soon’ 1 Timothy 3:14.

A combination may join with a form of εἶναι ‘to be’ to construct one action, for example, ἦν γὰρ διδάσκων αὐτοὺς ‘he was teaching them’ Matthew 7:29.

A repeat may repeat the idea of an action of saying, for example, ἀποκριθεὶς ὁ ἰησοῦς εἶπεν ‘Jesus answered by saying’ Matthew 11:25.

A command functions as an order, for example, πᾶσαν ἐνδεικνυμένους πραῦτητα ‘demonstrate complete humility’ Titus 3:2.

A declaration functions as a statement, for example, κωλύοντων γαμεῖν ‘they forbid marriage’ 1 Timothy 4:3.

An absolute stands as an independent clause, for example, ὧν ἀστοχήσαντες ἐξετράπησαν εἰς ματαιολογίαν ‘they turned to nonsense when they departed from these things’ 1 Timothy 1:6.

Examine thing functions.

A thing is an independent substance or concept, for example, μηδεμίαν ἀφορμὴν διδόναι τῷ ἀντικειμένῳ λοιδορίας χάριν ‘provide no opportunity for our enemies accusations’ 1 Timothy 5:14.

A modifier qualifies another thing, for example, ὑποτύπωσιν ἔχε ὑγιαίνοντων λόγων ‘keep the standards of sound teaching’ 2 Timothy 1:13.

A subject absolute stands alone as a thing, for example, ὧν ἀστοχήσαντες ἐξετράπησαν εἰς ματαιολογίαν ‘they turned to nonsense when they departed from these things’ 1 Timothy 1:6.

Examine grammatical categories.

A participle is a non-personal action with grammatical categories of a thing.

A participle always inflects both grammatical tense and agency, but also grammatical role, gender, and number. A participle never inflects mood or person.

Examine the participle.

Participles appear in present, future, aorist, and perfect tenses. Participles do not appear in imperfect or pluperfect tenses. Participles represent each agency in every tense.

Examine inflection.

A participle does not retain augment in past tenses. A participle does retain reduplication in perfect tenses, and final consonants in future, aorist, and perfect tenses.

A participle couples a principal group stem, first with theme vowels, then with grammatical role endings. A participle is characterized by theme vowels $\cdot\omicron\cdot$, $\cdot\epsilon\cdot$, $\cdot\alpha\cdot$, and $\cdot\upsilon\iota\cdot$.

Participle stem and theme vowels identify its tense. Theme vowels and role endings identify its grammatical agency, role, gender, and number.

An active participle has particular active role endings. $-\mu\epsilon\nu-$ characterizes the intensive and passive role endings in every tense, except the aorist passive, which uses active role endings.

The first principal group theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$. $-\nu-$ and $-\nu\tau-$ characterize the active masculine and neutral role endings, and $-\sigma\eta-$ or $-\sigma\alpha-$ characterizes the active feminine role endings.

The second principal group shares the same theme vowels and role endings with the first principal group.

For the third principal group, the second aorist theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$. The first aorist theme vowel is $\cdot\alpha\cdot$ everywhere, except for the third person singular, where the theme vowel is $\cdot\epsilon\cdot$.

For the fourth principal group, the first perfect active theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$ for masculine and neutral participles, and $\cdot\upsilon\iota\cdot$ for feminine participles. The second perfect theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$. Both first and second perfect participles share the same role endings, $-\tau-$ or $-\sigma-$ for masculine participles, and $-\alpha-$ for feminine.

For the fifth principal group, the second perfect passive theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$. The first perfect passive intensive and passive theme vowel is the empty vowel, that is, no theme vowel at all.

For the sixth principal group, the first and second future passive theme vowel is $\cdot\omicron\cdot$. The first and second aorist passive theme vowels are $\cdot\epsilon\cdot$ or $\cdot\epsilon\iota\cdot$. The aorist passive uses the active agency role endings.

Recognize the participle ending patterns.

The masculine and neuter active endings are third declension.

The masculine singular subject ends in -ων in the present, future, and 2 aorist, in -ον in the neuter singular subject, then and follows in some form of -οντ- in the other grammatical roles.

The masculine singular subject ends in -ων or -ον in the perfect active, then follows in -οτ- in the other grammatical roles.

The masculine singular subject ends in -ας in the 1 aorist active, in -αν in the neuter singular subject, then follows in -αντ- in the other grammatical roles.

The masculine singular subject ends in -ηθεις in the aorist passive, in -ηθεν in the neuter singular subject, then follows in -εντ- in the other grammatical roles.

The feminine singular endings are first declension.

The feminine ends in -ουσα- or -ουση- in the present and future, -ασα- or -αση- in the aorist active, -υια- in the future active, and -θεισα- or -θειση- in the aorist passive.

Most middle and passives end in -μεν-.

The present, future, and perfect middle and passive, and the aorist middle endings are first or second declension. They all end in -μεν-.
